Finally, 'Snorri's Saga' will enchant visitors by taking them on a relaxed lazy river journey through 'Rulantica'. The outdoor area 'Frigg Temple' guarantees great swimming fun.

After bathing fun and a thrilling experience, 1,700 deckchairs spread out in the spacious indoor area offer the possibility to sit down and relax. Eight individual Cabanas with catering services offer families an exclusive retreat. But not only the 20-meter-high, shell-shaped hall, but also the 8.000 square-meter outdoor area offer the possibility to relax on one of the 500 sun loungers in the open air and enjoy the southern sun.

If after all the water attractions visitors feel like enjoying a culinary time-out, they can choose from a wide range of catering offerings in this world full of experiences. The self-service restaurant 'Lumålunda' offers a variety of choices, from appetisers to desserts, all day long. Visitors can also rejuvenate themselves in the foyer of the water world thanks to a cosy café 'Lækkerback' with sweet treats. For an in-between meal, the snack restaurant 'Snekkjas' located in 'Rangnakor' invites visitors in.

For fans of wet who don't even want to leave the water for a refreshing beverage, the pool bar 'Skog Bar' in the 'Skog Lagune' is the perfect place to be. The 'Tempel Bar' in the outdoor area also offers delicious refreshments.

In addition, three shops give the opportunity for a quick browse, either to update some swimming equipment or to secure a small Rulantica souvenir. 'Snorri's Grotta' is located directly in the water world, whereas the other two shopping outlets are located in the lobby and on the first floor.

business implements the large-scale project independently and renounces the use of state subsidies. Europa-Park owner Roland Mack: 'The expansion of our overall offer and the realization of this unique water world is an important step towards securing the future of the location. We cannot afford a standstill if the region is to remain attractive to guests who are traveling from further afield. This lighthouse project not only provides a positive impulse for tourism development, but at the same time creates 550 new jobs and increases leisure value for the local community.'

For families in particular, the resort extension is a perfect complement to the best theme park in the world. Both before and after the refreshing adventure, a convenient shuttle bus service connecting the water world with the Europa-Park hotels ensures comfortable arrival and departure options.

Together with Rendler Bau GmbH and Wilhelm Füssler Bau GmbH, two well-known, family-run construction companies from the region, the major project will be realized in several phases.

Since 2016, Michael and Thomas Mack, together with their father Roland Mack and their uncle Jürgen Mack, have been part of the management of Europa-Park. As managing directors, they are responsible for implementing the new water world together with their sister and certified architect, Ann-Kathrin Mack.
